

Hey! Why is this newsletter so late?

As you may have heard, ActofGraceRadio.net moved our intergalactic home base from Reno, Nevada to Houston, Texas at the end of last month. And despite all the planning to stay ahead of schedule, the newsletter somehow got lost in the shuffling. Well, don't they say better late than never?

Last week's "@ the Rock Shop" was the first show originating from "The Lone Star State" and I expect to continue the outreach from here as long as God graciously provides the resources and imagination to do so.

The 4 day, 2100 mile trek went off without too many hitches once Gena, Penelope the cat and I were on the road. Texas sure is a big place and, I think, is monopolizing more than its fair share of heat, humidity and bugs!

AoGR receives gift of a CPU Command Center

Since the inception of "@ the Rock Shop" on September 1, 2006 I've been operating adequately with the first computer donated to me for the purpose of producing all the elements associated with this outreach. I must say it certainly served my needs well at the time, but I was starting to outgrow what it could accommodate.

Once again coming to AoGR's rescue was Gary Lebeck, computer whizmo extraordinaire of Reno, NV who not only built the computer pictured above for me, one that exceeded my specified needs, but unexpectedly added to it my wish-list of sundry software to boot. Others associated with supporting this ministry combined to make available that snazzy monitor—it's all good.

Hopes of more "Simon Peter" opportunities from Texas

Brownsville, Texas was the second place "Simon Peter: I Witness" was ever performed. After that El Paso, Texas and Albuquerque, New Mexico also joined California, Kansas, Tennessee and Nevada as places I've been invited to perform this one-man characterization of the beloved Apostle of Jesus.

Being more centralized geographically in North America by this latest move should make travel easier and open new opportunities to get the show back on the road in the weeks and months ahead. That'd be cool!

The sole inhabitant on a deserted isle was asked by rescuers about the two structures he had built. "That's the church I go to," he said. "What's the other then?" they asked. "Oh, that's where I used to go to church."

Etc., etcetera, &ct.

It's not too late to join in with us this week "@ the Rock Shop." Already more than 1100 visitors have dropped in during the first four days program #45 has been available. Texas is turning out to be very, very, good to us!

Also, if you'd be so inclined as to throw your support behind this ministry, visit the "Contact Us" page of the website to make a one-time gift or arrange for regular donations through Artists in Christian Testimony. We're ministry department #306. Or drop me an e-mail from the page and we'll discuss other means to participate with us.

To remove your name from our mailing list, please click here.
Questions or comments? E-mail us at simonpeter@thetransformedlife.org.

Volume 3 Issue 2 July 2007

Wow! Look at this fancy thing!
"@ the Rock Shop's" brains behind the mouth

What the Bible sez:

"It was by faith that Abraham obeyed when God called him to leave home and go to another land that God would give him as an inheritance. He went there without knowing where he was going."

Hebrews 11:8,9 (NLT)

I've found the patriarchs of the Old Testament, Abraham in particular, to be a great help in trusting God's leading. The recent move by AoGR to Texas fits in here somewhere.

We all know there are consequences to any action we take. But I also believe there are consequences to our inaction as well. What blessings do we miss out on because we're a little reluctant to really push the envelope of our faith?

I've heard the Apostle Peter sometimes maligned for his foolishness in getting out of the boat to try and walk to Jesus on the water, yet all the other Apostles were also in the boat, and who was the only one who took that step of faith?

Naturally, Gena and I likely will never fully know what the long-term results will be from our moving here totally relying on God's provision, but without a doubt this is where He has led, and from here we will by faith continue to serve.