

News report claims internet will soon be replaced

RATS!!! Here I was just getting comfortable utilizing cyberspace in its current form when word comes that it's not big enough anymore. Apparently, 1.1 billion users is about all the present system can handle, but having tasted of this "flavorful fruit" all indications are that humanity still wants more. What's on the WWW's horizon will most likely be something similar, different, and bigger. I've read predictions of a "grid" somewhere in the neighborhood of ten thousand times larger than what we have right now.

I don't know how soon any of this is going to actually become a reality, I've read Orwell's "1984", too. But staying ahead of the game is part of what internet evangelism has always sought to accomplish. And AGR will endeavor to be all over this.

Have you noticed God loves those buzzer beaters?

Don't you love rooting for the underdog? Is there anything more exciting than seeing a team snatch victory from the jaws of defeat? As often as I long for the occasional run-away "blow-out", I'm becoming more convinced that just isn't the way God rolls in my hood. I do love being an observer of last-minute heroics, just not being on the receiving end.

God initiated another miraculous ending for ActofGraceRadio.net last month. I honestly thought the jig was up...gas prices were soaring faster than the grocery and utility bills—I see an empty bank balance and few prospects for outside employment. What's "the little ministry that might" to do? Oh, remember Jesus saying "don't be afraid and don't worry?" Yeah, Gena, a significantly important supporter of this outreach, got an unexpected raise and the first installment in a quarterly bonus program. Hurray!!! To God be the glory—incredibly great things He has, is, and continues doing!

Step Six – Maintain a Starship Enterprise Approach

What (or whenever?) the internet morphs into in its next phase, our commitment at AGR is not unlike this variation of the way the old "Star Trek" TV shows opened, "to examine the strange new concepts of a Christian worldview, to seek out the meaning of a new life and a new identity (in Christ).

To boldly go where no other 'talk-show' on the internet has gone before." Still, our prayer is to grow beyond just "@ the Rock Shop."

Etc., etcetera, &ct.

Waiting another day before sending out this newsletter, might have meant I could tell you about my new job. I have an interview tomorrow with part of the Houston Astros home-game operations (it's selling concessions - but I'm sure there's a far loftier post to open up soon). In any case, if I don't get the job...then what good would it have been to mention it?

Gena and I plan to move to a less costly Houston locale when our current lease is up. Pray our listening skills hone in on what will undoubtedly be another buzzer beater episode.

Lo siento, el Newsletter es muy tardio

Would you believe I was waiting for Cinco de Mayo? Me either. Just running a little behind schedule this month, sorry. I will say though, I love the hats worn down Mexico way! Viva sombrero!!! Also note we're beginning anno numero quatro.

What the Bible sez:

"And now, just as you accepted Christ Jesus as your Lord, you must continue to live in obedience to Him. Let your roots grow down into Him and draw up nourishment from Him, so you will grow in faith, strong and vigorous in the truth you were taught. Let your lives overflow with thanksgiving for all He has done."

Colossians 2: 6,7 (NLT)

The old rhyme that April showers bring May flowers is a little off kilter down here in the Houston neck of the woods. As most of you are embracing Spring, (no, not the hamlet north of Houston!) we'll be experiencing the 90's this week.

This season renews and refreshes our spirits in wondrous ways and I know God intended we would relish this annual rebirth from winter's harshness.

Paul prefers a botanical allusion in his description of the "born-again" life of the Christian. Paul elsewhere describes for the church at Corinth that our new lives in Christ are equivalent to becoming a "new creation" (2 Cor. 5:17). Whereas I'd like to suggest an entomological inference; i.e. the metamorphosis of the caterpillar into a butterfly. No other transformation, I'm aware of, on this planet, or anywhere else in the universe for that matter, can compare to the striking change in one season from a creature that can merely inch her way along a stick on her little feet into a radiant, beautiful marvel that can fly! Nevertheless the butterfly will not give birth to another butterfly. No, their offspring start life as caterpillars. That's an odd one ain't it? Ye must be born-again.
